Dated the 21st June, 2016

Dear Dr. Mohan,

You are aware that immunization is one of the key interventions for protection of children from life threatening conditions, which are preventable. The Government is committed to ensuring that every child is immunized and protected. The Immunization trend has shown a decline in urban areas particularly with respect to some of the big States as Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra etc. which have large urbanised population.

This Ministry has launched special initiatives, such as Mission Indradhanush, to cover children who are either unvaccinated or partially vaccinated and those that have not been covered during the rounds of routine immunization for various reasons.

As you would appreciate that urban population under the jurisdiction of metropolitan areas may require focussed attention so as to ensure full coverage. I would request that necessary directions may be issued to officials in urban areas for extending support to officials engaged in Immunisation programme. It is essential for municipal authorities to target, particularly, the underserved population in urban areas. Your active participation in the programme will help in achieving national goals in this direction and also ensure a healthy population.
